

Leslie Enzian, MD

Medical Director, Edward Thomas House Medical Respite Program
Harborview Medical Center

Enzian's work has focused on providing health care to the homeless for more than 20 years. She has directed Seattle's medical respite program since 1996, the year the program first opened as a homeless shelter-based project. In addition to her role at Edward Thomas House, Enzian is a clinician at Harborview Medical Center's Pioneer Square Clinic, clinical associate professor at the University of Washington School of Medicine, and an active member of the National Respite Care Providers' Network. She is currently involved in developing national standards for the provision of respite services.
